Edwards Award

About the Edwards Award

The Margaret A. Edwards Award, established in 1988, honors an author, as well as a specific body of his or her work, for significant and lasting contribution to young adult literature. The annual award is administered by YALSA and sponsored by School Library Journal magazine. It recognizes an author’s work in helping adolescents become aware of themselves and addressing questions about their role and importance in relationships, society, and in the world. The Edwards award celebrated its 25th anniversary in 2013.

Caldecott 75th Anniversary Celebration

The Caldecott Medal was named in honor of nineteenth-century English illustrator Randolph Caldecott. It is awarded annually by the Association for Library Service to Children, a division of the American Library Association, to the artist of the most distinguished American picture book for children.

2013 Medal Winner

The 2013 Caldecott Medal winner is This Is Not My Hat, written and illustrated by Jon Klassen, published by Candlewick Press.

In this darkly humorous tale, a tiny fish knows it’s wrong to steal a hat. It fits him just right. But the big fish wants his hat back. Klassen’s controlled palette, opposing narratives and subtle cues compel readers to follow the fish and imagine the consequence.

“With minute changes in eyes and the slightest displacement of seagrass, Klassen’s masterful illustrations tell the story the narrator doesn’t know,” Caldecott Chair Sandra Lidietske said.

Welcome to the (Mildred L.) Batchelder Award home page

The Batchelder Award is given to the most outstanding children’s book originally published in a language other than English in a country other than the United States, and subsequently translated into English for publication in the United States.

2013 Award

Dial Books, an imprint of Penguin Group (USA) Inc. for My Family for the War, written by Anne C. Voorhees, translated by Tammi Heilich.

The book tells the story of 11-year-old Ziska who is Protestant but because of her Jewish heritage flees Nazi Germany via one of the secret trains called kindertransports. When she joins an Orthodox Jewish household in London, she gains a new family for the war.

"My Family for the War is an outstanding book about terrible choices. It is a story of hope, humor, endurance and even romance," said Batchelder Award Committee Chair Jean Hatfield.

Welcome to the Pura Belpre Award home page!

The award is named after Pura Belpre, the first Latina librarian at the New York Public Library. The Pura Belpre Award, established in 1996, is presented annually to a Latino/Latina writer and illustrator whose work best portrays, affirms, and celebrates the Latino cultural experience in an outstanding work of literature for children and youth. It is co-sponsored by the Association for Library Service to Children (ALSC), a division of the American Library Association (ALA), and REFORMA, the National Association to Promote Library and Information Services to Latinos and the Spanish-Speaking, an ALA affiliate.

2013 Author Award Winner

Aristotle and Dante Discover the Secrets of the Universe, by Benjamin Alire Saaénz, published by Simon & Schuster Books for Young Readers, an Imprint of Simon & Schuster Children's Publishing Division

"Aristotle and Dante Discover the Secrets of the Universe" brings readers the tale of 15-year-old loner Aristotle Mendoza and his friendship with Dante Quintana. Saénz exquisitely captures the story of two boys on the edge of manhood. By addressing issues of identity, friendship, family and love, Saénz pushes beyond geography, sexuality and cultural identity to create a truly universal novel.

"Saénz demonstrates superb use of language and character development, while gently exploring important aspects of identity without straying into gender or cultural stereotypes," said Pura Belpre Award Committee Chair Charmette S. Kuhn-Kendrick.

Welcome to the (Theodor Seuss) Geisel Award home page!

The Geisel Award is given annually to the author(s) and illustrator(s) of the most distinguished American book for beginning readers published in English during the preceding year.

2013 Medal Winner

Up, Tall and High, written and illustrated by Ethan Long is the Geisel Award winner. The book is published by G. P. Putnam’s Sons, a division of Penguin Young Readers Group.

A story of birds perform a play in three acts, while teaching the concepts of up, tall and high. The large font, word repetition, occasional rhyming and simple, but clear illustrations support the very beginning reader’s effort to read independently. Children will delight in reading additional words hidden beneath thick flaps.

The Carnegie Medal

The Carnegie Medal is awarded annually to the writer of an outstanding book for children.

It was established by in 1906, in memory of the great Scottish-born philanthropist, Andrew Carnegie (1835-1919). Carnegie was a self-made industrialist who made his fortune in steel in the USA. His experience of using a library as a child led him to believe that "if even wealth came to me that it should be used to establish free libraries."

Carnegie set up more than 2800 libraries across the English speaking world and, by the time of his death, over half the library authorities in Great Britain had Carnegie libraries.

First awarded to Arthur Ransome for 'Pigeon Post', the winner receives a golden medal and £500 worth of books to donate to a library of their choice.

The medal is awarded by CLILP: the Chartered Institute of Library and Information Professionals.

The Kate Greenaway Medal

The Kate Greenaway Medal was established in 1955, for distinguished illustration in a book for children. It is named after the popular nineteenth century artist known for her fine children's illustrations and designs.

The CLILP Kate Greenaway Medal is awarded annually for an outstanding book in terms of illustration for children and young people.

The winner receives a golden medal and £500 worth of books to donate to a library of their choice.

Since 2000, the winner of the Kate Greenaway Medal has also been awarded the £5000 Colin Mears Award. Colin Mears, a Worthing based accountant and children's book collector, left a bequest providing every Greenaway winner with a cash award as well as the coveted Medal.

The medal is awarded by CLILP: the Chartered Institute of Library and Information Professionals.
Good Literature Gives the Child a Place in the World...

...and the world a place in the child.

Astrid Lindgren is one of Sweden’s most important authors. Her works have been translated into more than 90 languages. She renewed children's literature and combined artistic integrity with commitment to the rights of children and young people. Astrid Lindgren died in 2002 at the age of 94, but her stories will live forever. To honour her memory and to promote interest in children's and young adult literature around the world, the Swedish government founded an international award in her name, the Astrid Lindgren Memorial Award.

The Astrid Lindgren Memorial Award is presented every year. The award money is SEK 5 million, making it the largest international children's and young adult literature award in the world. The award total indicates that reading by children and young adults is extremely important. The total is also intended to inspire anyone involved in children's literature.

The award is presented to authors, illustrators, oral storytellers and reading promoters. The award may be presented to a single laureate or to several, regardless of language or nationality.

The Astrid Lindgren Memorial Award is administered by the Swedish Arts Council.

An award from the Swedish people to the world

Children’s literature has the ability to encourage understanding and exchange between cultures and people. Children’s and young adult’s access to literature is a precondition for democracy and openness. Children's rights globally is the foundation of our work. The attention of the award leads to more translations and to more children having access to high-quality literature.

Do you want to know more about the works of the laureates?

The reading guides give information for anyone wanting to know more about our laureates and their works. The guides contain an introduction of the author or illustrator, description of the contents, a suggested interpretation and topics for discussions. They are meant to be used in book circles, in schools or just as inspiration for further reading.
Hans Christian Andersen Awards

Every other year IBBY presents the Hans Christian Andersen Awards to a living author and illustrator whose complete works have made a lasting contribution to children's literature.

The Hans Christian Andersen Award is the highest international recognition given to an author and an illustrator of children's books. Her Majesty Queen Margrethe II of Denmark is the Patron of the Andersen Awards.

The nominations are made by the National Sections of IBBY and the recipients are selected by a distinguished international jury of children's literature specialists.

With its expanded scope, it soon became obvious that so many categories diffused the Awards' impact. By 1984 the Board had reduced the number of awards categories to three and, in 1987, reestablished the National Book Awards with an emphasis that the Awards are given by writers to writers. Since 1996, independent panels of five writers have chosen the National Book Award Winners in four categories: Fiction, Nonfiction, Poetry, and Young People's Literature.

Nebula Awards

The Nebula Awards® are voted on, and presented by, active members of Science Fiction and Fantasy Writers of America, Inc. Founded as the Science Fiction Writers of America in 1965 by Damon Knight, the organization began with a charter membership of 78 writers; it now has over 1,500 members, among them many of the leading writers of science fiction and fantasy.

Lloyd Biggle, Jr., the SFWA’s first secretary-treasurer, originally proposed in 1965 that the organization publish an annual anthology of the best stories of the year. This notion, according to Damon Knight in his introduction to Nebula Award Stories: 1965 (Doubleday, 1966) “rapidly grew into an annual ballot of SFWA’s members to choose the best stories, and an annual awards banquet.”

Since 1965, the Nebula Awards have been given each year for the best novel, novella, novelette, and short story eligible for that year’s award. The Award for Best Script was added in 2000. An anthology including the winning pieces of short fiction and several runners-up is also published every year. The Nebula Awards® Banquet, which takes place each spring, is attended by many writers and editors and is preceded by meetings and panel discussions.

Introduction

The Hugo Awards, presented annually since 1955, are science fiction’s most prestigious award. The Hugo Awards are voted on by members of the World Science Fiction Convention ("Worldcon"), which is also responsible for administering them.

The Hugo Awards are trademarked by the World Science Fiction Society ("WSFS"), an unincorporated literary society which sponsors the annual World Science Fiction Convention and the Hugo Awards. WSFS is really just a framework for the individual Worldcons — it has no officers and no permanent organization (other than the Mark Protection Committee, which is responsible for registering and defending WSFS’s trademarks, and its Marketing Subcommittee, which runs this website.)

About the Awards

The Mythopoeic Fantasy Award for Adult Literature is given to the fantasy novel, multi-volume novel, or single-author story collection for adults published during the previous year that best exemplifies “the spirit of the Inklings”. Books not selected as finalists in the year after publication are eligible for a second year. Books from a series are eligible if they stand on their own; otherwise, the series becomes eligible the year its final volume appears.

The Mythopoeic Fantasy Award for Children’s Literature honors books for younger readers (from “Young Adults” to picture books for beginning readers), in the tradition of The Hobbit or The Chronicles of Narnia. Rules for eligibility are otherwise the same as for the Adult literature award. The question of which award a borderline book is best suited for will be decided by consensus of the committees.

The Mythopoeic Scholarship Award in Inklings Studies is given to books on J.R.R. Tolkien, C.S. Lewis, and/or Charles Williams that make significant contributions to Inklings scholarship. For this award, books first published during the previous three years are eligible, including finalists for previous years.

The Mythopoeic Scholarship Award in Myth and Fantasy Studies is given to scholarly books on other specific authors in the Inklings tradition, or to more general works on the genres of myth and fantasy. The period of eligibility is three years, as for the Inklings Studies award.

About

November

So You Want to Be President?
by Judith St. George
Illustrated by David Small
Elementary School • Nonfiction • Picture Book

It’s November when Americans vote in national elections. November is also Picture Book Month, a time set aside to celebrate the role of picture books in the lives of children. Both cause merge in our book of the day, which both educates and entertains young people—just as good picture books should.

Winner of the 2001 Caldecott Medal for David Small’s expressive and extremely funny illustrations, So You Want to Be President? by Judith St. George (revised in 2004) explores the backgrounds and personal characteristics of our nation’s presidents. Using telling details and fascinating quotes, St. George reveals one drawback of the job—people get mad at the president. Someone once threw a cabbage at William Howard Taft, who quipped, “I see that one of my adversaries has lost his head.” St. George also points out why someone would want to be president. One of the perks is living in the White House—with its own swimming pool, movie theater, and bowling alley.

In this book we learn that our nation has a propensity for electing those born in a log cabin and how presidents come with a variety of personalities. Calvin Coolidge, shy and quiet, had a dinner guest but that she could get him to say more than two words: “You lose,” he retorted. Clearly he also possessed a dry sense of humor. Presidents can be handsome or homely; William Harding may have been our best-looking president, but he once said, “I am not fit for politics, I am a soldier. I have a head on my shoulders, but it is bald.”

A Few Other Events for
November 2:
• Happy Birthday Malcolm X
• Anniversaries: The Concorde Crash (The Concorde Goes Down)
• MLK Day is on its way. On this day in 1963, President Ronald Reagan signed a bill creating Martin Luther King, Jr. Day
• People living in space: The first crew arrives at the International Space Station in 2000 (Read Space Station Rats by Michaela Deloney)
• Circles are everywhere: In raindrop ripples, in some letters of the alphabet, and in children’s books. It’s time for Circles Day to see how many you can find! Read So Many Circles, So Many Squares by Tara Holker, and Pond Circles by Betty Franco and Stefano Vitale.

The Common Core Standards emphasize the importance of high quality non-fiction across the curriculum, including in English Language Arts. This bibliography has been developed to model how ELA and other teachers can use informational books alongside works of fiction to explore various topics and themes in middle and high school classrooms. Pairings or groupings of different types of texts on related topics or themes can inform and extend readers’ understanding of a specific work or the topic or theme.

Lit2Go is a free online collection of stories and poems in Mp3 (audiobook) format. An abstract, citation, playing time, and word count are given for each of the passages. Many of the passages also have a related reading strategy identified. Each reading passage can also be downloaded as a PDF and printed for use as a read-along or as supplemental reading material for your classroom.
Lit2Go’s 200 Free (and Teacher-Friendly) Audio Books: Ready for Downloads

in Audio Books, Books, K-12, Literature | May 3rd, 2012 Leave a Comment

A number of sites offer free MP3s of public domain books—LibriVox and Podiobooks, for instance. What sets apart Lit2Go, the University of South Florida’s extensive collection of free audio books (Web - iTunes), are the materials to help K-12 teachers present literature in the classroom.

From fairy tales to The Iliad (Web - iTunes), Lit2Go organizes more than 200 titles by author and genre (adventure, gothic, history, science fiction) with clear genre descriptions and plot summaries for young readers. The look and feel of the site’s beta version is user-friendly and library-like, with typewriter fonts and illustrations making it a pleasure to browse. There are a few small kinks to be worked out however, so teachers interested in downloading supplemental materials should opt for the original site.

Lit2Go marries the old school library form (each novel a year of publication and original publisher is included) with the capacity of the web (a link takes readers directly to the iTunes store, where Lit2Go has its own section of free downloads).

Many titles include support material to kick off classroom discussion or to coach students through developing their own character diagrams. One of the site’s real assets is the way it curates titles into collections, including African-American Literature, American Founders and the intriguing Happines Collection where readers find Robert Louis Stevenson’s poem...
